

Trees are essential for the existence of the human race as they provide the oxygen that we need to survive. Yet, daily all around the globe large areas of woodland are being destroyed. Many people feel that they as individuals can do nothing and that only governments and large companies can halt the destruction. How far do you agree or disagree with this?

Worrying about the ~~destruction of destroying~~ of woodland is a new phenomenon that people and governments ~~are~~ faced with ~~it~~. Jungles are good sources of producing oxygen which is necessary for existence of life and nowadays they are being destroyed for many reasons. For example, ~~building~~ a company or house in their land or ~~using~~ their wood.

Many people believe that they cannot do anything to ~~rescue survive~~ jungles and it is governments' responsibility. They think governments not only should maintain jungles, but also they should ~~plant~~ new jungles for later generation.

In my opinion, people similarly are responsible for destroying woodland. Companies want to meet people's need of wooden things such as chairs, tables, doors and so many other ~~things-commodities~~ and they do not have any alternative except felling trees. So if people decrease their demand of wood, companies might ~~cut down on not~~ cutting trees. In other words, people are the main ~~hidden~~ applicants of woods which ~~have~~ forced out companies to ~~cutting~~ trees.

~~In~~ ~~on the~~ other hand, governments can pass a law to keep jungles and also spread them. To illustrate this, governments can force companies to plan ~~a~~ specific number of trees in their campus annually, so in coming years every company ~~have-has a~~ small jungle which ~~converts converse~~ the carbon dioxides that ~~were~~ created ~~by with~~ the company to oxygen and help the environment.

Indeed, governments can expand parks or ~~plant~~ trees ~~on the in-~~sides of roads and highways, because cars are the biggest producer of carbon dioxides which is one of the ~~threats threatened~~ for society's health.

To summarise, it can be said that everyone is responsible for destroying the large amount of areas of woodland and everyone should help for rebuilding that.
