As we march in this millennium, the world becomes smaller and smaller. ~~The~~ humanity can travel around various countries and even continents in the span of few days. On the other hand, tourism industry is one of the appreciable sources of income in a the number of different regions. If a tourist intends s to visit a foreign country briefly, I will recommend ~~that they them to~~ visit historic museums_s, classic concert_s and go to eat their common specialty.

First and foremost, I maintain that the more knowledgeable person about a country's history, the sooner you assimilate useful aspects of the alien culture. Therefore, the most convenient place for gathering sufficient information about diverse fields like history, culture, custom and rituals is historical_{al} museum_s. I would like to stress ~~that~~ how you can have even a rudimentary record of a trip when you are not familiar with some formative events/incidents/happenings happens and eras such as the chronology of abolished monarchs or governments, revolutions and whether they were willing to accept novel religions and convictions or were too stubborn.

~~Secondly, The second place is~~ most of the anthropologists believe that classical or domestic music is one of the inseparable and rapid methods of understanding the emotions of 'comprehension of a nation. nationality. Consequently, not only can you have pleasant marvelous time on in a journey, also you can achieve a holistic perspective about the nation's spiritual characteristics. Modern psychology has concluded that people declare their social and political concern/solicitude and utopia's specifications in their songs and music. In Addition, it provides appropriate time for a visitor to mingle with participants and converse about their common favorites and even differences.

And last but not least, what can be more rewarding/fantastic than a delicious specialty of a country? Although having a detailed meal in shortage of time seems a bit superficial, it features several dimensions of a country's details. As an example, on in most ~~of the~~ occasions, the main portion of a people's food is the crops ~~having~~ ~~been~~ cultivated in that area and are in proportion ~~to~~ ~~of~~ its climate. The other point is the eating habits of citizens which demonstrate part of their history and folklore.

In conclusion, in my opinion, if a passenger ~~just~~ has just a one day to visit a country, it will be intellectual to go to a historic museum, a classical music concert and an intimate restaurant. By visiting a historic museum they can reach enough information about the previous dynasties governments, extinct religions and beliefs. The other place is classic music concert. Finally, they can enjoy comfort from helping themselves with a flavorful specialty and get useful information about the dominant climate condition and some of the most prevalent crops harvests of the respective /that region.
