

Successful sports professionals can earn a great deal more money than people in other important professions. Some people think this is fully justified while others think it is unfair.

Discuss both these views and give your own opinion.

Nowadays, the governments spend a lot of money on spreading the culture of sport and health, hence they encourage the youth to do exercise and widely support them. In addition, the media plays a pivotal role in making athletes popular and a huge number of people follow their competitions and long to be like them. Therefore, because of these this constant attentions, not only are they able to achieve a legendary wealth, but also they can turn into a role model or guru.

Some say that the sports professionals have suffered from constantly overwhelming exercises to be prepared for different races every time. Moreover, they prefer their children to follow them because of enjoying a healthy lifestyle/life style. As a result, they have no problem with athletes' super salaries.

However, there are another people who believe that sports have turned ed into an international business and these are not just for health. They maintain that there are various spectrum-spectra in a society in spite of the fact that, they are very studious, honorable and useful for society like scientists, researchers, doctors or even nurses who they could not earn sufficient/good wages.

As far as I am concerned, only some of these sports professionals can enjoy these huge salaries. The Rest of them fail to progress and after a while, they would be forgotten and they would spend very common lives in their old career.

To sum up, in our real virtual world where we confront with many communities earning a good deal of money with crimes and various illegal jobs. We should not be strict about money which has been obtained by sports.
